

Creating an Organic Connection

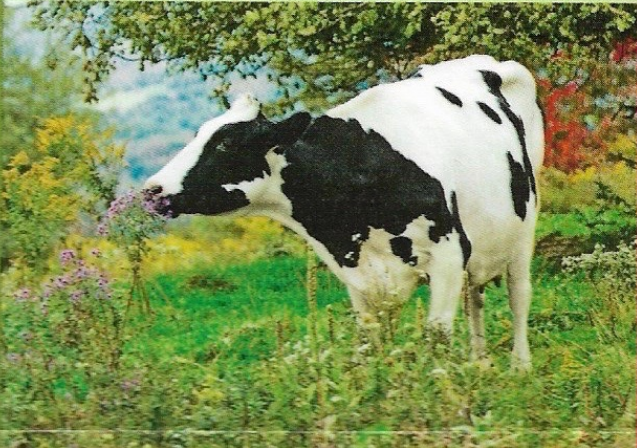

At Horizon Organic,[®] we believe in producing wholesome dairy without the use of antibiotics, added hormones, pesticides or cloning. Synthetic colors and artificial flavors are also off the list. So what do all those "No's" add up to? A big "Yes" for your health and the health of the environment.

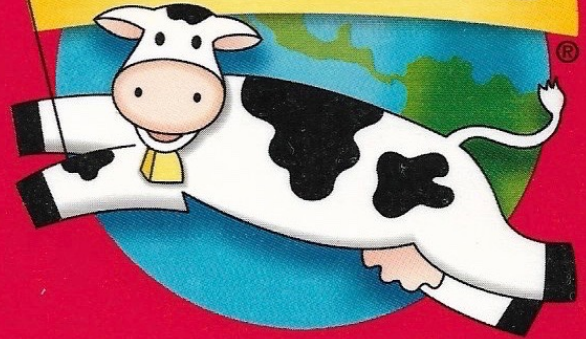

We figure it's all connected. Eliminating chemicals from milk production creates a healthy environment that supports healthy cows, healthy family farms, healthy communities and a healthier planet.

Above all, we think choosing organic leaves the world just a little better than how we found it. And it all starts with one creamy and delicious glass of milk.

Nurturing an Organic Generation

At Horizon Organic,[®] we believe that organic is a healthier choice for all of us. And lately, that idea is really catching on.

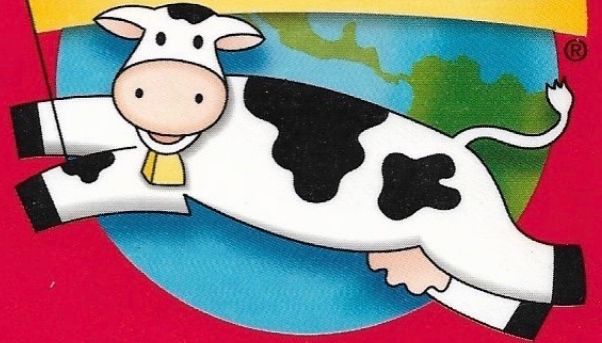

More and more, our kids are drinking organic milk produced without antibiotics, added hormones, pesticides or cloning. They're also learning about the positive impact organic food has on the environment.

The wholesome nutrition of Horizon Organic milk is a simple way to help kids flourish. It also plants the seeds for an organic legacy – ensuring clean water and fertile soil not only for our children, but for future generations as well.

Get to know our FAMILY FARMERS

Hardy Farms

Organic was a natural choice at Hardy Farms in Maine. Like his father before him, Henry Hardy recognizes the importance of grazing and working in harmony with the land.

“The fun stuff is getting up in the morning, breathing nice, fresh air and working with the animals. I wouldn’t want to do anything else,” says Henry. The passion for farming continues on to the next generation.

“The kids love the cows, they’ve always shown them at fairs,” Henry says. “When we go out to pasture, the cows are always at our back pockets looking for affection. It’s kind of neat.”
